HUE FESTIVAL

Where Hue, Vietnam

What Events by local artists celebrate the rich history and culture of Vietnam, with highlights including music concerts, recreations of the traditional Hue Royal Games (pictured below) and truly spectacular light shows. huefestival.com

UNTIL 15 JUNE
RICHARD DEACON: ON THE OTHER SIDE

Where Heydar Aliyev Centre, Baku

What The Turner Prize-winning British sculptor has brought a selection of both monumental and small-scale work from the past decade to Baku. His form-defying pieces (such as Congregate from 2011, above) demonstrate Deacon's inventive use of materials such as wood, metal and ceramics, bringing a particular logic and beauty to his work. heydaralyevcenter.az

UNTIL 5 MAY
FIRE UNDER SNOW

Where Louisiana, Humlebæk, Denmark

What The museum shows off its impressive permanent collection with an exhibition of recently acquired works by contemporary artists, including Candice Breitz (whose 2006 video installation Working Class Hero is pictured above) and Ed Atkins. en.louisiana.dk

UNTIL 5 JUNE
TILL IT'S GONE

Where Museum of Modern Art, Istanbul

What This group exhibition's focus is on sustainability and nature, and includes Jasmin Blasco's 2015 The First Human Born in Space project (pictured above). The result is a multi-generational vision of the future of our planet, conveyed through sculptures, installations and images. istanbulmodern.org

16 MARCH-13 JUNE
THE WORLD OF MIYAKE ISSEY

Where The National Art Centre, Tokyo

What From his training at Tokyo's Tama Art University in 1960 to his position today as one of the most recognizable designers in the world, this exhibition charts the career of Issey Miyake over the past 45 years (including his 1994 design Flying Saucer, pictured below). Part of the show concentrates on Miyake's innovative ongoing research into clothes that combine comfort and style. nact.jp

UNTIL 15 MAY
MARCEL BROODTHAERS

Where MoMA, New York

What The influence of this singular artist's work has gone unappreciated by many, but this first major retrospective should change that. Through his use of traditional sculpture materials and more unconventional choices – such as eggshells and mussels – the lasting impact of Broodthaers's work (pictured above) is highlighted with references to today's art scene. moma.org

UNTIL 23 APRIL
REZA DERAQSHANI

Where Sophia Contemporary, London

What The celebrated Iranian artist provides the opening exhibition for this new gallery in London's Mayfair. Derakshani's use of colour (as seen in his 2015 work Hunting Pink, pictured above) reflects the fusion of Eastern and Western art, as he explores themes of migration, modernity and nostalgia in his varied output. sophiacontemporary.com

UNTIL 8 MAY
MARRAKECH BIENNALE

Where Marrakech, Morocco

What This year's edition, 'Not New Now', showcases the artistic traditions of Marrakech, and their evolution in the modern world. Tours of the city's historical wonders accompany the art (which includes Khaled Malas's 2015 work Windmill, pictured left). marrakechbiennale.org

UNTIL 29 MARCH
FAIG AHMED

Where MACRO, Rome, Italy

What The Azerbaijani artist is known for distorted traditional carpets, in which he disassembles familiar cultural signifiers. Here, in his show 'Points of Perception' (including the carpet, above) he creates a site-specific installation using the museum's architecture to connect tradition and modernity. In doing so, he touches on the Sufi notion of connecting mind and body as his multi-media practice reinterprets and rearranges reality. museomacro.org
